

New Labor Code To Be Studied At Ottawa Meet

OTTAWA, Nov. 6. (CPI)—Dominion ministers who will confer at a labor conference here next week are expected to discuss enactment of a labor relations code as recommended by a resolution approved by the National Liberal Federation, it was learned yesterday.

After asking that the rights of labor—including the right to bargain collectively—be maintained after the war by such measures as are available to the dominion parliament under the constitution, the resolution added that "definite means should be considered now to make this possible." The resolution was passed at the Liberal Federation meetings here Sept. 27 and 28.

RESOLUTION ISSUED

The resolution and others, was issued to the press yesterday by Gray Fargue, Liberal member of parliament for the British Columbia riding of Cariboo and honorary secretary of the Federation.

The labor resolution stated that the contribution of labor to the war effort demanded increasing recognition and declared the Liberal Federation would support vigorous measures to make a labor-management partnership effective through labor-management councils and the participation, wherever appropriate, of representatives of labor on wartime boards and other government agencies.

"Provision should be made for the rectification of unfair inequalities in the remuneration of labor. The code should apply in so far as federal measures may properly be extended under wartime conditions," the resolution said.

URGENT CO-OPERATION

Co-operation with the United Nations to implement principles of the Atlantic Charter was endorsed in the resolution.

A social security resolution recommended the age at which old-age pensions were payable be reduced, that the maximum income allowed pensioners be raised and that no claim for pension be made on the estates of deceased pensioners when the net value was less than $2,000.

Production and employment required stability and security for orderly progress, said another resolution.

from strip mines in the Canmore area. Priorities for hauling the fuel were received Friday, and it is hoped to have first carloads arriving by Monday at the power plant.

Lighting and power curtailment appeals have met with response from businessmen and householders alike, city commissioners said, but they appealed for further co-operation to conserve available coal.

Peter Collins, secretary of Edmonton sub-district of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, said Saturday morning "there is nothing new on the strike situation whatever."

"The miners regret the delay over settlement of the strike," he said, adding he has had no word from union officials in conference with Dominion labor officials at Ottawa. Mr. Collins said no word had been received up to Saturday morning from Calgary offices of the union, regarding emergency supplies of coal for hospitals and schools.

PASSED TO CALGARY

Earlier in the week, the local secretary had received communications from bodies representing supplies for these institutions. The communications were passed on to District 18 offices in Calgary.

The city contended its "blackout" Friday night, with every second street light in the downtown area out, and lights in residential districts off at 2 a.m. instead of burning all night. No blackout incidents were reported to police or city officials.

There now are five German divisions in battle on the 5th Army front, it was disclosed, and three opposing the 8th Army.

OTHER GAINS

In addition to a five-mile surge up the Adriatic coast near Vasto, 8th Army troops also made gains of more than 1½ miles in the region some 25 miles inland, capturing Pietrarsa, Sessano, and Durnia. These towns were taken by the 1st Canadian division of the 8th Army pushing northward from the captured Isernia-Capriane region.

Nazis Claim Planes Bomb Vatican City

By J. EDWARD MURRAY

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Nazi-controlled Rome radio said today that unidentified planes dropped four heavy bombs last night on Vatican City, causing "considerable damage."

There was no immediate confirmation of any Allied raid on Rome and Allied sources inclined to the belief that if bombs actually fell on Vatican City they were dropped by German planes in a carefully laid plot to discredit the United States and Britain in the Catholic countries, particularly Spain, Portugal and Latin America.

Allied headquarters at Algiers, which announced both previous Allied raids on Rome, made no mention of any attack on the capital in today's communiqué.

The nearest Allied raids to Rome were those on highways between Rome and Terni, 60 miles to the north, and an airfield at Nettuno, 31 miles in the southeast, and they occurred Thursday night.

GERMAN TRICK

Bearing out the theory that the raid was a German trick to try and put the blame on the Allies, the Nazi propaganda broadcast said:

"A thorough and conscientious inquiry will not fail to denounce to the whole world the authors of the criminal attack. It will show in whose interest it was created in Rome, where life has been normal for several days."

The Rome radio said the four bombs landed about 9 p.m. (Rome time) with 300 feet of St. Peter's Basilica and the Vatican Museums struck. The three-foot-thick roof and some windows were damaged.

Another bomb landed near the Governor's Palace and blew out the glass of the windows, but damaged the frames, the broadcast said. The other two fell in open ground, one near St. Peter's Basilica and the other probably damaging the Vatican Museums.

"A group of German officers immediately went to the Vatican to inspect the damage and get a high ecclesiastical personage, who pointed to the provocative nature of the attack as 'the heart of the Catholic world,' the broadcast said."

Every probably possible personage gave orders that German officers should be taken to the spot where the bombs fell near the Basilica.

The broadcast said the attack was aimed at the Vatican, the most prominent landmark in Vatican City, mountains run down to a shelf beside the sea. Along this shelf runs the coastal road to Pescara.

In striking to Vasto, British troops of the 8th Army swept through Salvo where the Germans had held out more than a week, and on the basis of reports from the front today British troops were within 15 miles of the Sangro river, where the Germans undoubtedly will attempt another stand.

THREATEN NAZIS
The Nazis still are resisting at some places along the north bank of the Trigno river, but their forces are threatened on both sides by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's groups and they are not likely to stay much longer.

The crossing of the Garigliano by British patrols was made near the Tyrrhenian coast where the enemy flooded fields near the river.

The area north of Venafro, into which the Americans now are pushing, is rough terrain. The U.S. troops have as their next probable objective the highway near Cassino, on a main highway to Rome.

A Letter from Home!

Not only was Edmonton the first major city in the Dominion to pass its dollar bill, but it was also the first to have armed service units stationed here in all three of the fighting services, early went over the top. Above is the scene at 101 street and Jasper avenue during the noon hour Wednesday when a composite "V" honor pennant was presented to the three branches of the service here. The pennant is for exceeding all minimum requirements and for attaining more than required percentages of personnel participation. Presentation of the pennant was made by R. V. Price, chairman of the payroll savings section of the North Alberta Victory Loan Committee. Holding the flag are: Lt. Cmdr. Dixon, commanding officer at H.M.C.S. Nonsuch, R.C.N. V.R., Lt. Col. Alan Elliott, E.D., acting Edmonton area commandant, Canadian Army, and Wing Cmdr. E. G. Dear

We are faced with the greatest coal strike in Canada's history. A total of 9,000 miners in Alberta and British Columbia are out. They are demanding an increase in pay of $2 per day, time and one-half for the sixth day of work, and two weeks' holiday with pay. As a result of the walkout coal supplies are running short and Edmonton faces a grave situation should the strike continue for any length of time. The city power house has enough coal for about 15 days, but even the coal stocks of Mayor Fry have cut the use of electricity as much as possible. City streets are dimmed-out at night and at 2 o'clock each morning all street lights are shut off making a complete blackout. No electric signs are visible, so we are experiencing what many coast cities have had to face. However, we are hoping the strike will be settled shortly and everything will be back to normal.

They Can Still Be Bought

There is every prospect that when the books are closed tonight it will be found the objective of the Fifth Fort Worth has been well exceeded. But that cannot be known to a fact until the reports are all in and the totting-up completed. There are thus still a few hours in which to get in an application and so help to make certain that Canada will go well beyond the mark.

Nothing has been any other sum $1,200,000,000—or any other sum—being the limit on bonds available. The application is the other way, for when previous years have been closed, the limit was supplied, regardless of the nominal objectives having been passed. Those who make application this afternoon evening have therefore no cause to fear that they will be disappointed.

Coal or No Coal?

It has been disclosed that the strike of coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia is in contravention of an order-in-council passed more than three weeks ago, and is therefore illegal. Demands have accordingly been made in some quarters that the striking miners be haled into court, fined or jailed. Nothing of the kind is likely to happen. There have been no legal strikes during the last six months and punitive measures have not followed. The miners are no farther outside the law than were those in the past. The mines have tied up production, they are nine thousand strong, their places cannot be filled, and coal is desperately needed. The important thing is to get the miners back into the mines. That would not be speeded by a flood of legal actions, and this might easily have precisely the opposite effect. The ultimate fact is that the miners can probably do without wages for a while better than the public can do without coal. Every ton of coal passes with the mines side adds to the danger that hardship, suffering, and possibly death, will result. If the mines had been kept going steadily there would have been no need for the output would meet the need. That prospect is poorer by the amount of coal that could have been mined. The strike is a waste, and is made still poorer by every added day the stoppage lasts.

The Not Wanted

Berlin propagandists continue to discover "captured military documents" on which to base any of their propaganda. They think advisable. Their latest alleged find is said to disclose a plot on the part of Badoglio to kidnap Hitler and Mussolini, and then them over to the Allies.

Badoglio may or may not have had that idea in mind, but the story falls about the implication that the Allies wanted Hitler and Benito, who would be taken to them, and what they would have done with them, the propaganda experts do not suggest.

Mussolini was already a squeezed lemon when Badoglio caught him, and it was a favor to the Allies when Hitler's paratroopers stole him. As for the Fuehrer, it would be a mistake to take him out of the part to remove him from the position in which he is so ably engineering the destruction of the Nazi power and the war machine. He has been kidnapped someone might have got on the job who relied on sense and not intuition; and that would have been better for the Allies.

Both Benito and Adolf are where they should be. Delivered into Allied hands they might be haled by Goebbels and made martyrs in the eyes of German and Italians. If there are those in Berlin who would like to get rid of them—which is verging from probability into certainty—they should be left to do the removing themselves, by whatever means they choose to employ.

The Dnieper Trap

From Kiev down to the mouth of the Dnieper all the territory east of that river is now in Russian hands. The forces are pounding Kherson, on the north bank of the stream where the estuary begins, and are preparing to take the city. From Kherson north to Krivoy Rog is a gap ninety miles wide through which Nazi forces from the area enclosed by the big bend of the Dnieper must make their escape if they are to escape at all.

This rapid push westward south of the river may explain why the Red forces have been held up at Krivoy Rog. They have been waiting for the southern jaw of the pincers to get in position before effecting the place and the gap. Once the southern column effects a crossing, the escape corridor can be narrowed from either side or from both. That enemy could have been cut off at Krivoy Rog sooner if that had been strategically desirable is quite probable.

Nothing in the situation suggests that the long Russian offensive has lost momentum or has been stopped by the inpouring of fresh enemy forces. The indications are to the contrary. The forces are still going strong and the Nazis fighting only to keep the gap open until as many as possible can get out of the trap.

The winter is due to set in in that region, bridge the streams, harden the roads, and blanket the country in snow feet deep. Those are conditions in which the Red forces have shown themselves to be particularly mobile, and in which the enemy has never been able to even put a successful defence. It is known that the Red forces have been in the area for a year and a half, and Hitler's men must be poorer supplied than they were last fall.

Brave as they are, the outlook cannot be other than dark for the Nazi soldiers in that area as they fight a lost battle while the skies are overcast and the breath of the wind sweeps across the open steppes. And, whatever Goebbels may pretend, Germans at home cannot look eastward with a gleam in their eyes for they know it is not a question of holding the Ukraine but of extricating their sons, brothers and husbands from the jaws of the Dnieper trap.

A Toronto controller wants to "exterminate" the Gipsy fortune tellers who are infesting that city. So that is where they went!

The weather was unduly kind to Nazi centres for a week or more, keeping British-bombed bombers grounded. They got away on Wednesday, with cruising over the Wehrmacht, Dusseldorf and Cologne; while their comrades from Italian fields gave Weiner-Neustadt its third blasting in three days. Four major attacks on widely-scattered targets in 24 hours must have set a new record.

United States shipyards delivered 163 cargo vessels last month, bringing the year's total of completed carriers up to 1,524. At 8,000 tons capacity each, this is enough ships to carry the grain and other crop overseas in a single voyage. That does not tell the whole story of how fast Allied sea transport is growing, for yards in Canada, Britain and elsewhere have also been turning out bottoms at high speed. But, making allowance for sinkings at a far higher rate than in the past, the recent reports, the figures give assurance that the shipping shortage is being rapidly overcome. That handicap—one of the most dangerous to the Allies—has been dealt with, and is fast disappearing.

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

JOHN OLIVER conceded to be his greatest work in his symphony No. 6, which he subtitled "The Patriotic." That first performance went only moderately well with both orchestra and public, but the second performance under Napravnik and every performance thereafter by every orchestra has gone exceedingly well, but the creator, who lavished so much love and labor on it, was no longer on this earth to hear the resulting tumult of applause.

In all history there have been few men about whom there has been so much romanticism. This was charged with activities, situations and circumstances that seem scarcely credible even when they are recorded as a fiction. There was, for instance, his career which destined him for a life at law, but he was graduated from the Petersburg Law School when he was 19 years old. Then there was his marriage in 1871 to a young girl, Mikulov, from whom he parted forever after almost a brief spell of married life as he recorded.

One of the greatest romances in history developed between Tchaikovsky and Madame Nadejda von Slesk, the widow of an Russian railroad construction engineer. Fascinated by the music of the young Tchaikovsky, who was at that time beginning to climb to the top, Mme. von Slesk settled upon an annual pension of 6,000 rubles so that he could pursue his career without regard to economic security. But the composer's benefactor insisted that they never marry. He never did. They interchanged correspondence, and in his dedication to her of his Fourth Symphony Tchaikovsky poured out his feelings toward her that had been so long unexpressed. He had been more ardent than his feelings had permitted.

Once they were one another—at the country estate she occupied the main house and the composer another some distance away. One day while she was out driving she passed Tchaikovsky on the road and they waved. Then, after several years, she ceased paying the annuity to the composer, and while several possible explanations have been given, the matter never has been cleared up. He was deeply affected and felt slighted by this incident.

There has been much speculation regarding the naming of the Symphony No. 6. Modest Tchaikovsky, brother of the composer, has given a trustworthy account in his biography of Peter. He wrote "The day after the premiere I found Peter Tchaikovsky at the tea-table after the score of the Symphony. He had to forward it immediately to his publisher, Jurgenson, at Moscow. The designation 'program symphony' he had already discarded. 'What kind of a program symphony is it, if I don't want to furnish a program?' I proposed to Peter to name it 'Tragic.' He approved of that, too. 'Suddenly the word 'Patriotic' came to my mind. 'Excellent Modest! Bravo! Patriotic!' and he wrote it on the flyleaf of the score where it has remained ever since."

Tchaikovsky is one of the greatest melodists of all time and one of the most original composers. He was an innovator in orchestration. Thus, the combination of rare melody, rich harmony and brilliant orchestration, rounded out by magnificent craftsmanship as a musician.

has endeared him to the world. Probably no composer has provided what is colloquially called "pop" music with so much of its inspiration as Tchaikovsky. Many of his works have been the basis of popular songs. He is a hit writer on Broadway or in Carnegie Hall, and to the world at large there is no more popular composer.

The Edmonton Civic Opera Society production of "The Firefly" is nearing its "finale," and will be shown at the Strand Theatre on Nov. 16, 17 and 18. Mrs. James B. Carmichael, general musical director, said Saturday that she is well satisfied with the progress of the combined efforts of principals, chorus and orchestra, and that the production promises to equal the best of past years.

Mishel Piastro, former concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, has returned to his former field of endeavor, that of conducting. One of the world's foremost violinists, and rated by Leopold Auer, teacher of Elman, Zimbalist, Milevski, and other great players, as one of his best pupils, Piastro was invited from the concert platform in 1921 to become concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic. A post which he held with distinction until this year. He then accepted a post as that of the string section which he led, seldom has been equaled elsewhere in the history of orchestral playing and has been the subject of many eulogiums from discriminating music lovers. Now Mr. Piastro has returned to the field of concert-giving. He has a busy season ahead and will find time for one recital during the season. He gave a highly successful recital at Toronto last Tuesday. Other engagements will be in and around New York and at points further afield. A brother, Josef, a leading violinist, also is scheduled to appear in recital in New York.

The Edmonton Piano Class Teachers Association held its monthly meeting during the last week. There was a large attendance. Members spoke with enthusiasm of their year's work. While their work in the public schools started later than usual, they felt that excellent results would be achieved. It was reported that an unusually large number of pupils registered, and that the boys and girls were enthusiastic in their work in their music studies. The principal theme of the discussion was about school credit and music, which was said to be a vital question to this time among the older pupils.

Moscow Peace Plan Approved By U.S. Senate

By HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The United States senate overruled overwhelmingly yesterday to back up the Moscow four-power declaration for an international organization to keep the world at peace. The vote was 85 to 5 in favor of a resolution sponsored by the foreign relations committee.

The opposition votes came from Senators Hiram Johnson (Rep., Calif.), William Langer (Rep., N.D.), Robert Reynolds (Dem., N.C.), Henrik Shipstead (Rep., Minn.), and Burton Wheeler (Dem., Mont.). As the final vote was announced Senator Scott Lucas (Dem., Ill.) shouted: "This is the end of a glorious day in the senate of the United States."

ACCEPT RESPONSIBILITY
"Through this declaration of good faith," he told the crowded chamber, "the senate of the United States as now constituted advises the world that it is ready to assume its responsibility in helping chart a course which will bring a lasting peace to suffering peoples of a tortured world."

By its vote the Senate caught up with the declaration made in the United States, Britain, Russia and China which was announced last Monday.

As finally adopted, this is the heart of the resolution: "The United States, in the name of the people of the United States, hereby declares its policy of peace and its determination to preserve the peace of the world."

TREATY PROVISIONS
"That pursuant to the constitution of the United States, any treaty made to effect the purposes of this resolution, on behalf of the government of the United States with any other nation or any association of nations, shall be made only by and with the advice and consent of the senate of the United States, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur."

Japs Score Gains On China Front
By CLYDE A. PARNSWORTH

CHUNGKING, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Striking out along a 30-mile front in the Yangtze-Tungting Lake area, some 100 miles from Shanghai, Japanese campaign, 30,000 Japanese backed by large reserves have scored great gains in an apparent desperate effort to forestall a general Allied offensive, the Chinese announced yesterday.

Using waves of planes and heavy artillery, the Japanese because of the lakes and streams crisscrossing the area, the Japanese were acknowledged to have captured the towns of Kunhsien, 50 miles southwest of the Yangtze river port of Shanghai, and Nanchang, 70 miles south of Shanghai, in the "rice bowl" region of the Hupsh-Han border area.

Says Catholics Hesitate to Back The C.C.F. Party
VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—(C.P.)—Most Rev. W. M. Duke, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Vancouver, in a sermon in Holy Rosary Cathedral Monday said Catholics have hesitated to support the C.C.F. party because of ambiguity in statements of policy by C.C.F. leaders. Archbishop Duke asserted the C.C.F. has permitted many leaders in various provinces to make divergent statements of policy and as a result the party seems different in each province.

City Flier Takes Mascot to Italy

By F.O. BOB FRANCIS, R.C.A.F.

Written for The Canadian Press
WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN ITALY, Nov. 6.—(C.P.)—When the pilots of one squadron here say that where they go there goes their mascot, they mean it. In fact, when the first member of the squadron set foot on Italian soil, Spittie, a little brown and white mongrel, scrambled out of the aircraft with him. F.O. J. Woolgar, Edmonton, one of several R.C.A.F. pilots with the squadron, arrived with some other pilots by transport plane the day the Spitties landed at their first base. As he jumped out into the duty field, the little mascot came out with him, maintaining her reputation of being one of the most-favored dogs in the air force. Spittie joined the squadron in Algeria, and has covered North Africa, Malta, Sicily and Italy in her travels.

Plan to Present Reich With "Bill" For Art Treasures

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Harlan Fiske Stone, chief justice of the United States, said here yesterday that a "bill" for art treasures stolen or destroyed by the Germans in the occupied countries of Europe is being prepared and will be presented with other reparations demands after the war.

The chief justice, as chairman of the board of the national art gallery, heads the committee which is being prepared and will be presented in catalog and list art treasures stolen or destroyed in countries that have been overrun since the war started.

Italian Monarch Returning From Talks in Naples

By WES GALLAGHER
ITALIAN-GOVERNMENT HEADQUARTERS, Italy, Nov. 6.—(AP)—King Victor Emmanuel was understood last night to be on his way back to the government seat after talks in Naples with Count Carlo Sforza and other political leaders who oppose his retention of the throne.

It is expected the King will confer with Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio here on the chances of his being able to broaden the basis of the Italian cabinet.

There was no immediate indication whether the King had been able to reach a compromise with Sforza.

If the King reached no agreement with Sforza and Badoglio, the Italian philosopher in Naples, there is little chance for him but to consider abdicating.

Two Lose Lives As Truck Crashes

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
PEACE RIVER, Nov. 6.—(C.P.)—Reimer, 48, and C. Griffiths, six years of age, were instantly killed on the Grosvenor hill, which is the main highway leading out of here, near midnight Thursday when the truck they were riding in left the road on a slight curve about 100 yards above the railway tracks. The truck rolled over on its side.

Evidently Reimer, who was holding the Griffiths boy, was in the truck, endeavored to make a flying leap as he felt the truck commencing to capsize, as his body, badly mangled, was under the rear wheel while the body of the boy was pinned between the cab and the truck box.

The father of the dead boy, George Griffiths, was driving. Reimer was a widower with three children and lived on a farm with his aged mother in this district. Mounted police are investigating and an inquest is being arranged.

Pork Consumption Must Stay Within Reasonable Limits
OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—(C.P.)—The meat board said last night in a statement that "Canadian must continue to keep their domestic consumption of pork products within 'reasonable' limits if optimum export quantities to the United Kingdom are to be maintained. The board said the total supply of meats in Canada is ample to provide the quantities required under rationing and consumers can obtain their full ration requirements without materially increasing purchases of pork products."

Adjust Wage Rates For Civil Servants

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—(C.P.)—The treasury board announced last night it has approved annual increases in compensation in accordance with civil service classification schedules for temporary employees who have completed at least one year of service or to a maximum salary rate of $2,100 a year.

The announcement said the payments would be effective from last April 1.

Employees with more than a year of service will receive as at April 1, 1943, the rate they would have received if the provision had been in effect at the date of their assignment to the civil service, provided the annual payment as of that date, does not exceed an amount equal to three annual increases in the class range and that there shall be no retroactive payments for service prior to that date.

Employees who have received retroactive increases, provided no reassignments will not receive an annual increase until the completion of one year of service from the date of reassignment.

Also announced was a special arrangement for grade one clerks, both permanent and temporary, and employees in positions with a comparable salary range. They will receive a $2 monthly increase after six months of service, instead of after a year of service as heretofore.

Mine Controversy Remains Possible In United States
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The War Labor Board last night approved the Latta-Lewis coal wage scale with a qualification which leaves one point still open to possible controversy.

The board split 11 to one as it adopted a resolution which provided that the memorandum of agreement between the Latta-Lewis coal wage scale and the United Mine Workers' president "is hereby approved, subject to clarification of the Latta-Lewis coal wage scale provisions for payment of tonnage or piece work."

If John L. Lewis acquiesces in the modifications of the agreement covering tonnage workers it probably will end the wage controversy which has kept the coal front in turmoil since last March.

Practically all the province's largest and most valuable crop in years has been harvested. Partly offsetting this, farmers reported a serious threatened loss of grain with about 30 per cent of this crop remaining unharvested.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

We All Shall Not Sleep...

"We all shall not sleep..." — 1 Cor. 15:51.

PERHAPS one of the hardest things we have to bear in losing our loved ones in the war is an overwhelming sense of futility. It seems such a needless waste of glorious young manhood when our boys are struck down before life has really begun for them. It seems tragically unfair that all the bright promise of their youth has come to nothing.

Yet we know that God is love, and that He wants the best for His children always. We are willing to believe that our brave lads were summoned because of their very worthiness and cleanness to Him.

"Promoted from their country's call To serve a King Divine."

Why should we not believe that they are developing the talents and powers He gave them in this life for greater achievements in the hereafter?

Leslie Weatherhead suggests that probably death makes as little difference to the purposes of God as would be caused by our removal from this city to another. This means that we do not have to reconcile the memory of those who have died to life, and eager for the thought of eternal rest. Archbishop Paterson Smyth further assures us that "No one can study the Bible references to the life beyond without seeing that it cannot be a life of sleep or unconsciousness. 'Soul do not sleep when bodies are alive. Only bodies sleep.' The life after death is one of continual growth and progress for the soul."

With this reassurance, we can picture our spiritual sons in that wondrous new adventure, "living a full, vivid, conscious life, thinking and remembering, growing and becoming fitted for eternal Heaven."

We can imagine them bringing to that adventure the things they all, who they have gained in themselves: "The treasures of memory, all the disciplines of years, of enlarged capacities, of pure and loving hearts. All the enrichment of the mind by study, all the love of man, all the love of God, all the ennobling of character which has come through the struggle after right and duty."

We can believe them to be braver, stronger and happier there than we have ever seen them, going from strength to strength in wisdom and service as they continue God's great work—helping those, who have recently entered the Kingdom: the weak and the ignorant and the vast heathen world who have just gone within the veil, never having heard of Christ—helping us by their prayers and loving influence over our lives.

We feel that in this new realm our ambitions and dreams for them will be realized beyond our fondest hopes, and that the high promise of their youth will still be gloriously fulfilled.

The Rev. Spurgeon M. Hirtle, a veteran of the First Great War, will speak on "The Shape of Things to Come" at the special service of the First Baptist church Sunday evening, 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. J. Arvid Vikman will be in charge of regular Sunday services in the Augustana Lutheran church.

By CHARLIE EDWARDS
TORONTO, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Coach Francis Boucher refused to give up on his New York Rangers after they took trimmings in their first three National Hockey League games. He told New York writers the "doom" opening was caused by lack of pre-season exhibition games and the fact circumstances prevented a half-dozen players from training with the club at Winnipeg. ... Speaking of his own projected comeback after five years' retirement Boucher said explicitly: "We'll see how I get along."

Off the gridiron:
Toronto Navy may be well down in the O.R.F.U. but the stars have made a great showing for a team whose captain, Sandy Milne, is the only player with senior experience before this year. Coach Ted Merri, the former Winnipeg and Toronto Argos backfielder, deserves consideration as the coach-of-the-year in Canadian football. ... Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes have become the league's greatest kickers. They started to work on Navy in the season's first game with cracks like: "Why don't you boys go back to high school?" ... The Hurricane jockeys reached their peak last Saturday against Hamilton Wildcats at the expense of Joe Krol. Inspired by a newspaper picture purporting to show Krol's faculty for complete relaxation and rest between plays, the armless rode Krol about the field and kept it up until the great backfielder disappeared into the dressing room after the game. Maybe the strategy worked. At any rate, Krol's performance here a week ago was his poorest of the season and his wild lateral in the last quarter gave Hurricanes their winning touchdown.

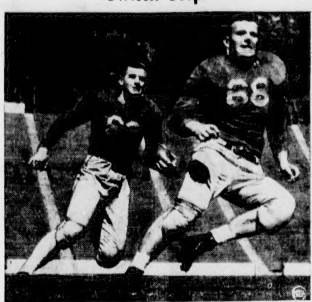

What now little man?

To Hold Double Draws

Alberta Avenue Curlers Prepare for Coming Season

A welcome was extended to new members of the Alberta Avenue Curling Club by President George W. Jones who was in the chair at the semi-annual meeting held in the club rooms Friday night.

Forty skis have already entered rinks for this year and double draws are expected to be played six nights a week with first starting at 7 o'clock and the second at 8.

The meeting opened with a minute of silence for the late chief of police Matthew Blackwood, veteran member of the club and former second vice-president, who passed away during the year.

Members of the Thistle club were again welcomed to curl at the Avenue rink and Tom Jones, president of that club expressed the appreciation of his club-members for the courtesy extended them.

The Thistle curlers, whose building has been taken over for war purposes, played on the Avenue ice last winter and expect to have at least six rinks curling there this coming season.

A large group of enthusiastic curlers, (about 60) attended the meeting.

Officers of the Alberta Avenue Club are: President, George Jones; first vice-president, John Campbell; second vice-president, George Burn; third vice-president, Walter Murphy; social chairman, J. Shandner; draw chairman, E. S. Barker; treasurer, Bob Savoyard, formerly of Althabasca.

Honorary life memberships were awarded E. S. Barker, W. H. Gordon and M. W. Fife.

Threfall Claims Bombers Have Edge on Regina Gridders

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Reg. Threfall, coach of Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers in the Western Canada Armed Services Rugby League, believes there are eight factors essential to the make-up of a good football team. They are: blocking, timing, organization, running, passing, kicking, pass defence and general defence.

Of these eight factors Threfall believes his Bombers, who clash with Regina All-Services Roughriders in the opening game of the league's two games, total-point playoff here today, are at least adequate on six of them. The ones he isn't so sure of are passing and pass defence, but the demon coach hopes to develop the former before the playoff with the Roughriders is over.

He has his hopes on L.A.C. Brian Quinn, a long-distance passer from Ottawa. Quinn joined the club two games before the close of the regular playing season and went well in both games he saw action. He may just possibly provide the tonic the Bombers need to beat the Riders.

Commenting on the playoff Threfall said last night the team's principal foe — next to the Regina team—is apt to be overconfidence.

Lake, who is suffering from shoulder and leg injuries, wasn't named on the Regina line-up, which includes: Saap, L.A.C. Nae; inside, Cpl. George Shields and Les Lear; middle, Cpl. Robt. Ludwig and Sgt. Tiny Lucid; outside, Cpl. Don Duro and AC2

Leninism and the Colonial Question

By Joseph Stalin

the nations dominating them. Thus the principle of self-determination, instead of being a weapon for the struggle with annexation, actually ran the risk of becoming an instrument for the defence of such annexation. This inconsistency may now be considered as having been done away with.

CONCEPTION BROADENED

Leninism has broadened the conception of the principle of self-determination by interpreting it as the right of the oppressed peoples in dependent and colonial countries to complete secession, to an independent national existence.

Formerly the question of oppressed nationalities was generally regarded as a question of law only. This bourgeois-legalistic point of view has now been completely discredited. Leninism brought down the question of nationalities from the lofty heights of high sounding resolutions to reality, by asserting that declarations about the "equality of nations" which are not backed by the proletarian parties with direct assistance to the liberating movements of the oppressed peoples, are false and misleading. In consequence the question of oppressed nationalities has today become a question of help and support, real adequate support, for the oppressed nationalities in their struggle with imperialism. It became a struggle for the real equality of these nations, for their right to exist as free and independent states.

INDEPENDENT QUESTION

Formerly the national question was regarded from a reformist point of view. It was looked upon as an independent question, having no connection with the general question of capital rule, with the question of the overthrow of imperialism and of proletarian revolution. It was tacitly accepted that the victory of the proletariat in Europe is possible without the direct union with the emancipation movement in the colonial countries. It was believed that the emancipation of the colonial peoples could be achieved inconspicuously, in an effort made, so to speak, and not be made part of the proletarian revolution, part of the struggle with imperialism. This anti-revolutionary point of view may now be considered void.

Both the Imperialist war (the First World War) and the Russian revolution have proved the contention of Leninism that the national-colonial question can only be solved in connection with, and on the basis of, the proletarian revolution. They have shown that the road to the victory or the revolution in the West leads through the revolutionary union (of the proletariat) with the emancipation movement in the colonial and dependent countries against imperialism. The national-colonial question is part of the general question of the proletarian revolution. It is part of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The problem may therefore be put thus: Are the revolutionary possibilities inherent in the revolutionary liberation movement of the oppressed nations already exhausted or are they not? If they are not yet exhausted can they be utilized to the interests of the proletarian revolution. Can they be used to transform the dependent and colonial countries from a reserve at the disposal of the imperialist bourgeoisie into a reserve of the revolutionary proletariat? Can they be made into an ally of the latter?

CONFIRM CONCLUSIONS
Leninism answers this question in the affirmative, asserting that the national liberation movement in the oppressed countries has revolutionary possibilities that can be used for the purpose of overthrowing the common enemy, imperialism.

The course of imperialist development, the imperialist war of 1914-18 and the revolution in Russia amply confirm the conclusions of Leninism on that score.

That is why it is important for the proletariat to give vigorous and decisive assistance to the national liberation movements of the oppressed and dependent peoples.

This does not mean that the proletariat must support every national movement at all times, and on every occasion. What is meant is that the proletariat should lend support to those national movements which are directed toward the weakening and overthrow of imperialism, and not to movements which, on the contrary, seek to strengthen and preserve such imperialism. There are instances when the national movements of certain oppressed countries conflict with the interests and development of the proletarian movement in those countries. It is obvious that in such cases there can be no question of the proletariat supporting these national movements.

OPPOSED BY MARX

The question of the rights of small nations is not isolated and detached, but a part of the general problem of the proletarian revolution. It must be viewed from that standpoint. Karl Marx in the forties of the past century, supported the national movements of the Poles and the Hungarians and opposed such movements among the Czechs and Yugoslavs. Why? Because the Czechs and Yugoslavs at that time were "reactionary peoples." They were the "Russian outposts" in Europe, the outposts of absolutism, while the Poles and the Hungarians were locked in a struggle with absolutism, and were therefore "revolutionary nations." Marx opposed the national movement of the Czechs and the Yugoslavs because these movements were indirectly supporting the Czarist regime in Russia, which was the most dangerous enemy of the revolutionary movement in Europe.

Lenin sums up the problem as follows: "The various demands of democracy, including self-determination, are component parts of the democratic and now we can also say of the socialist, world movements. It is possible in certain concrete instances for one of the parts to contradict the whole. In that case it should be rejected."

Lenin was right when he said that the national liberation movement in the oppressed countries must be evaluated from the standpoint not of formal democracy, but of their importance and achievement in the general struggle against imperialism. They must be judged "not in an isolated manner, but on a world scale."

With regard to the solution of the national question Leninism proceeds from the following assumptions:

TWO CAMPS

The world is divided into two camps: in one camp a handful of civilized nations, possessing the financing capital and exploiting the vast majority of the population of the earth; in the other camp are the oppressed and exploited peoples of the colonies and dependent countries, which compose this majority. The only way in which these oppressed peoples can free themselves is by means of revolutionary struggle.

The principal colonial and dependent countries have already entered upon the path of the national liberation movement, a step which will inevitably bring about a crisis in world capitalism. The interests of the proletarian movement in the mother countries and of the national liberation movement in the colonies call for the combination of the two branches of revolutionary struggle into a common front against the common enemy, imperialism. The victory of the working class in the mother countries and the freeing of the oppressed colonial peoples are impossible without the formation of a common revolutionary front.

DIRECT AID

The formation of a united revolutionary front is impossible unless the proletariat of the oppressor nations gives direct and decisive aid to the liberation movement of the oppressed peoples and against the imperialism of their own fatherland." For as Marx says: "No nation can be free that oppresses other nations."

Such support implies, the advocacy, defense and recognition of the right of nations to secede of their right to exist as independent states.

Clothing Sales

In Britain Soar

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(CP)—Clothing sales in Britain during September were the highest in three years with almost everyone apparently going on some kind of spending spree as the result of the issuance of new ration coupons for a 10-month period. For the country as a whole sales jumped 80 per cent over August, the last month of the old coupon book, the board of trade reported.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

St. Charles Minnie says that his Army duties do not leave much time for bridge. But he did have an opportunity to play in the world championship Masters pair event last August.

His contract on today's hand was only one no trump—but such hands are just as important in duplicate bridge as grand slam hands. When North doubled one diamond, East bid a heart, think could get out in spades. Sergeant Minnie made a strong bid of no trump. When everybody passed, he realized he might have a tough contract—the one no trump contract in duplicate usually is difficult. The opening lead of the heart ten was allowed to hold. When West continued with the nine, dummy's king was played. East covered with the queen and Minnie won. He played a low card to dummy's queen and returned to his hand with a spade to the king, called the good heart, and then West in the lead by playing a diamond. West had to give the defender either an extra diamond or an extra club trick.

CHAPTER XXVII
IMHOFF thought a moment. "Give me your room key," he said to Pat.
He went downstairs. The porter was at the desk. Imhoff went to the mail and key desk and found the mail in his pigeon hole. "I was expecting a message, but it's not here," he said to the porter. "See if it's not somewhere around in your pigeon hole." It was rather important.
The porter turned away to investigate and Imhoff quickly refilled the exchange of keys on Schroeder's book.
Nothing has come, Mr. said the porter, looking up.
Pat's key hung motionless on Schroeder's book and Schroeder's key was stuck in Imhoff's pocket.
"That's strange," said Imhoff, looking at the key. "Well, see if it's put in my box the minute it comes, please." He ordered and mounted the stairs.
He was less than a minute he was in and out of Schroeder's room with the bag.
"Check up on it," he said to Pat after opening it with a key from Schroeder's key ring.

HOLD EVERYTHING

"Hello, folks—I'm home on shore leave!"

Very well. Thank you. Imhoff said. The receiver took which was out of sight of the clerk, then breaking the connection. "I wish you would," he went on smoothly into the new dawn transmitter. "You'll hold the wire." He slipped a weight on the receiver hook to keep it down and covered the transmitter with his hand, called confidentially to the clerk, "Schroeder's there."
The clerk getting him, Imhoff turned Imhoff was closing the front door behind the imaginarily departed doctor, while Pat rolled his eyes.
"I thought he was never going," he said. "A nice enough little man but—oh, no."
Imhoff hung Schroeder's key on the hook and they returned upstairs, presumably to dress for the evening out. The night clerk descended with the value Imhoff hung up their two keys and with a disguised look at the value opened the door.
"I'm going to dance with every officer in the regiment," Pat announced, taking a dance step on two. "Don't sit up for me," she called back to the clerk in good warning.
"Hope they'll let me on the street car with this," said Imhoff sourly, betting the value. Then with a grin, "Nonsense," in the clerk, he strode forth.

He removed the weight, hanging up and made a little face at the clerk. "He says he tried to call up Mr. Ritter here and the line was busy. I think he forgot all about Ritter. If you ask me, I wish people wouldn't ask favors they know you can't refuse." He went on irritably. "Schroeder has to have a bag of his and come and get it himself. Wanted me to bring it to him. Go was out to that place on our last night here. I told him I'd put his bag in the porter's and leave it for him. That's some help, anyway. Well, now I have to go and tell Ritter the little fairy tale."

The clerk listened politely. Still grumbling, Imhoff lifted Pat's key off Schroeder's book and took himself upstairs. Repeating the words "Hold everything" on the top of the rising lift, then closed it.
Sitting Pat down ahead, Imhoff locked all the doors, pocketed the keys, then followed. He waited until she had got rid of the clerk on an errand before descending to the lobby. The man returned Imhoff was closing the front door behind the imaginarily departed doctor, while Pat rolled his eyes.

Protests Against Britain's Bombing Policy Are Rapped

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Lord Winster told a war savings meeting here yesterday that citizens he had seen protesting the British bombing policy against Germany "not only betray gross ignorance of the nation we are dealing with, but indicate the wilful and most cowardly refusal to face the facts of the case."
"Bombing has convinced the German people as nothing else could that they are not going to win. It has opened out for us a road to victory and will shorten the war," he said.
He expressed hope use of the word "bombing" in connection with R.A.P. heavy attacks be abandoned since "night after night strong forces of aircraft carrying thousands of personnel over Germany are engaged in a vast operation on a specific object."

SUPERMAN

TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE, LINK? GUESS AGAIN! SUPERMAN IS DOING SOMETHING ABOUT YOUR CASE!

I KNOW YOU'VE GOT A LEGITIMATE SQUAWK, LINK, BUT MARK MY WORDS—I BET SUPERMAN'S DONE SOMETHING ABOUT YOUR CASE EXACT THIS MINUTE!

JERRY SIEGA AND JOE SHUSTER

IN A FOXHOLE CLOSE TO THE JAP LINES IN A HOT SECTOR OF THE WEST SOUTH PACIFIC THEATRE OF WAR, MAJINE PRIVATE LINK LARSEN IS STILL GOING (AND WITH GOOD REASON) ABOUT THE FACT THAT HE GETS NO MAIL FROM THE FOLKS BACK HOME....

TO GOOD TO BE TRUE, LINK? GUESS AGAIN! SUPERMAN IS DOING SOMETHING ABOUT YOUR CASE!

I'VE GOT HIS OLD TEACHER, HIS OLD DOCTOR AND THE TOWN DRUGGIST TO PROMISE TO WRITE TO LINK, BUT WHAT I'M LOOKING FOR IS SOME REAL FOLKS. SO FIRST STOP: THE PRINTING PLANT OF THE HOMETOWN CHRONICLE!

SOON AFTER....

HERE YARE, SUPERMAN—BUT TO BE BLAZED IN A SHORTER TIME WORKING ALONE!

THANKS, BUT I THINK I CAN GET BETTER COVERAGE IN A SHORTER TIME WORKING ALONE!

MOMENTS AFTER, A COLORFULLY COSTUMED FIDLE STREAKS THRU THE TOWN AT EYE BAFFLING SPEED POSTING THE BILLS AS HE GOES....

WHAT A GUST OF WIND!

AAAA-CHOO!

MONSTER BALLY! TODAY! THE BOND BUYING SUPERMAN WILL APPEAR!

WOW! I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!

ME EITHER—BUT I AM GOING TO MISS IT!

(MAGNIFIED) UM, WE'RE GOING TO MISS IT!

SUPERMAN GOT IT! I HAVEN'T GOT!

FELLOW CITIZENS OF HOMETOWN, OUR BOND-BUYING RECORD IS GOOD. BUT LIKE ALL GOOD AMERICANS WE'VE GOT TO DO BETTER! SUPERMAN HAS GENEROUSLY OFFERED TO PERFORM ANY ONE OF HIS SUPER-STUNTS FOR ANY PURCHASER OF A WAR BOND!

SO! IF ONLY ONE SUPERMAN BOND BUYER WILL JUDGE ANYBODY WHO BUYS A TWO AUTO BOND HAS TO IN THE AIR TO PROMISE TO WRITE A LETTER TO HIS FELLOW-TOWNSMAN LINK LARSEN (ONE JUMP! TWO LETTERS!)

YOU ASKED ME TO JUDGE TWO AUTOS? EASY—AND I'LL TOSS YOU IN FOR GOOD MEASURE!

WHEE! THIS IS FUN!

FOR TWO SOLID HOURS THE MAN OF STEEL PERFORMS AMAZING SUPER-STUNTS AND SELLS WAR BONDS GALORE, THEN....

YOU'VE ALL PROMISED TO WRITE TO LINK LARSEN, MAY I SUGGEST YOU GO ON HOME AND DO JUST THAT? AND MAY I ALSO SUGGEST THAT EVERY TIME YOU BUY A BOND TO HELP WIN THE WAR, YOU ALSO WRITE A LETTER TO SOME BOY WHO'S ACTUALLY DOING THE WINNING?

SWELL! IDEA! THAT'S PROMISE!

YOU BET, SUPERMAN!

YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING IMPORTANT! WHAT ARE TO OUR FIGHTING MEN—IT A BOND AND WRITE! WOULD SWEEP THE NATION!

AND IF PEOPLE REALIZED HOW IMPORTANT LETTERS ARE TO OUR FIGHTING MEN—IT A BOND AND WRITE! WOULD SWEEP THE NATION!

MEANWHILE, BACK IN THAT SOUTH PACIFIC FOXHOLE....

WOW! THOSE JAPS ARE CLOSING IN ON US, LINK, LOOKS LIKE WE'RE REALLY IN TROUBLE—BUT BAD!

BAD FOR YOU AND MARY BOB—BUT WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE FOR ME? NOBODY CARES ENOUGH ABOUT ME EVER TO WRITE ME A LETTER!
